Responding to unprecedented needs

The ongoing war in Ukraine has profoundly impacted millions, with 12.7 million people—over a third of the population—expected to need urgent assistance in 2025. Civilians across the country face immense challenges, particularly in the east, south, and north.

Escalating violence has displaced families and deepened vulnerabilities, while attacks on infrastructure threaten millions with extreme winter conditions. Amid this crisis, the Danish Refugee Council remains committed to alleviating suffering, restoring dignity, and offering hope in collaboration with national and international partners.

This booklet showcases our achievements over the past year, made possible by the unwavering support of our donors, partners, and teams.

Partnering with local CSOs

To ensure timely and comprehensive assistance across Ukraine, DRC collaborated with 34 civil society organisations (CSOs), delivering support to over 22,100 individuals through the Emergency response programme, Protection, Economic recovery, Shelter and settlements, and Humanitarian disarmament and peacebuilding sectors.

Advocating for rights and services

DRC continues to advocate for better access to rights and services for conflict-affected communities while promoting a principled, timely, and accountable humanitarian response.

Supporting long-term solutions

We support long-term solutions to help displaced individuals regain stability, access essential services, and rebuild their lives. DRC is committed to strengthening national legal frameworks to protect the rights of internally displaced people (IDPs) and others affected by the conflict, while fostering a supportive environment for humanitarian efforts.

Empowering first responders and local initiatives

We also call for flexible funding to empower first responders and local initiatives, aiming to mitigate the conflict's impact and support sustainable recovery.

Collaborating for practical solutions

Through our advocacy programme, DRC works with key stakeholders, including the Ukrainian government, UN agencies, and the international community, to highlight the needs of conflict-affected communities and develop practical, lasting solutions.

Data-based approach to address challenges

We take a comprehensive approach, using research and real-time insights from our work across the country, such as protection monitoring, legal support, and community engagement, to guide our advocacy. By working closely with our program teams, we identify barriers and challenges facing these communities and focus on areas where we can make a meaningful difference.

“I understand there are risks in this job. However, I work with confidence because I have been properly trained and know the safety rules. I also trust my colleagues,” says Victoriia, a DRC deminer.

Victoriia has been working with the Danish Refugee Council for over a year. Before that, she was a salesperson in a store in Luhansk Oblast. She applied for a vacancy, underwent training, and began clearing areas of explosive ordnance.

“I am motivated by the fact that we are doing something good for people. The more we clear, the fewer risks there will be. Secondly, there’s the socio-economic impact—I know this work is important for communities, and it’s important to me as well,” she adds.

Partnering with local CSOs

In southern Ukraine, DRC partnered with the Misto Syly, SavED, and the Tenth of April to provide 2,785 individuals with assistance in Protection, Economic recovery, and Shelter and settlements.

The DRC activities mentioned above were possible thanks to the financial support of the European Union, the USAID's Bureau for Humanitarian Assistance, the Office of Weapons Removal and Abatement in the U.S. State Department's Bureau of Political-Military Affairs, the German Federal Foreign Office, the Ministry for Foreign Affairs of Finland, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands, the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Danish International Development Agency, Switzerland through the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation, the Swedish International Development Agency, the Ukraine Humanitarian Fund, the Novo Nordisk, the Novo Nordisk Foundation, and the Howard G. Buffett Foundation. The humanitarian aid activities in Ukraine are supported as well through means donated by private foundations and individuals primarily in Denmark.

“Many people who have fled their homes because of the war are now internally displaced and in need of help, including legal assistance. We assist with issues such as inheritance registration, compensation for destroyed or damaged housing, and document recovery.

For example, restoring one woman’s passport allowed her to receive aid from a humanitarian organisation, enabling her to buy firewood and survive the winter in warmth. Or when someone finally receives compensation to rebuild their home, it motivates me to keep helping others,” says Vitalii, Protection Officer (Lawyer) at DRC.
